Governor Little appoints Judge Cynthia Yee-Wallace to Fourth Judicial District

Boise, Idaho – Governor Brad Little announced today the appointment of Cynthia Yee-Wallace as District Judge to the Fourth Judicial District Court.

"Yee-Wallace is highly regarded as a genuine and dedicated legal professional," Governor Little said. "I have no doubt she will serve the people of Idaho's Fourth Judicial District with the utmost expertise, compassion, and respect for the law."

Yee-Wallace spent almost nine years in private practice before becoming a Deputy Attorney General in 2012. She received her undergraduate and law degree from the University of Idaho.

"I thank Governor Little for the honor of appointing me to this position," Yee-Wallace said. "I will faithfully serve Idaho's citizens through unyielding fairness to the parties and attorneys who appear before me, as well as humility in the discharge of my duties."

The Fourth Judicial District includes Ada, Boise, Elmore, and Valley Counties.
